REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

William McKinley
OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Garret A. Hobart
OF NEW JERSEY.

FOR GOVERNOR,

Llewellyn Powers
OF BOULTON.

For Representatives to Congress:

First District—THOMAS B. REED, of Portland.

Second District—NELSON DINGLEY,
JR., of Lewiston.

Third District—SETH L. MILLI-
KEN, of Belfast.

Fourth District—CHARLES A. BOU-
TELLE, of Bangor.

There is every reason to believe that Mr. Platt would make a good governor for New York. His enemies say that he had made several governors already, and they were good ones.

The "Somerset Gold and Silver Advocate" is a new Bryan and Sewall paper published at Skowhegan for the sake of advocating silver alone. Subscriptions, however, are payable in the gold standard.

The longer Mr. Bryan makes speeches such as he made Saturday, the better it will be for the sound money cause. Statements that afford the common sense of all men of good business instincts, carry with them destruction to the orator's cause.

Hon. M. P. Frank has departed into the East, and in the course of his orbit will not again shed silver light above our horizon until September 7th. We are curious to know whether he can make the Eastern people believe those wonderful fables about the silver dollar, which he put forth at Westbrook.

The great Republican mass meeting at Old Orchard today will be well worth attending, and will undoubtedly bring out a large concourse. The place is most beautiful for such a meeting, and has with it the historic associations of many great meetings, political as well as religious. The orators are among the choicest in America; and Mr. Reed will undoubtedly make one of his greatest speeches of the campaign.

The assignments of Democratic speakers which have been made public, indicate that the State machine has abandoned this portion of the State almost entirely. Of sixteen speakers who are advertised to address meetings, only one of them is to speak in this portion of the State. This is Mr. Frank, who has three meetings in this congressional district, where he lives. But Knox, Waldo, Penobscot, Somerset, and other counties of those regions, are to be favored with many meetings. This means that the Democratic managers are relying on warning over the old Greenback craze and will confine their efforts to those parts of the State where it was most rampant seventeen years ago.

General Joe Wheeler of Alabama, has been renominated for Congress after a desperate contest for delegates to the Democratic convention, and his election will undoubtedly follow as a matter of course. General Wheeler's return will be a pleasant thing, although he is an utterly hopeless free silver crank. As a picturesque survivor of the band of Confederate cavalry chieftains, he always attracts attention; and as a legislator he does as little harm as any free silver man that his constituency could send.

The plan of the Cuban patriots to burn all the villages which they take seems cruel; but it does not therefore follow that it may not be justifiable. Many years ago the Netherlands were oppressed by the Spaniards, as Cuba is today. Under the counsel of their great leader, William the Silent, the sturdy Hollanders did not hesitate to cut the dykes and let the ocean roll over their fields, houses and cities in order to drown out the merciless invaders. History and time have justified William the Silent and his associates. It is a great sacrifice to roll a wave of fire over Cuba; but history has proved that it is worth the greatest sacrifices to get rid of the rule of a Spaniard. Moreover, it was found in our civil war that the harshest measures were often the most merciful in the end. When Sheridan harried the Shenandoah valley he is said to have left so little that a crow could not fly down its length without carrying provisions. But by this destruction the feeding ground of Lee's army was cut off, and their killing power was crushed for lack of sustenance.

The island of Crete or Caudia which is so often and so unhappily before the eyes of Christendom, is an ancient isle of a renown that ought to insure it a happier present. From its bosom rises Mt. Ida, and near by is the cave where the Minotaur was wont to dwell. There is an old tradition that civilization, while on its way from the Egyptians and Phoenicians to the Europeans, halted for a time at Crete. And here also it was that Minos legislated in the dim days before history was written. The first Christian church was founded there by Paul himself, and the tide of Moslem invasion has never been able to overwhelm the believers in the cross. In 1524 the Venetians became masters of the island, and held it until 1629, when the Turks, then in the days of their glory, fastened their dominion upon it. In the days of Grecian glory the island is said to have maintained a population of about 1,300,000 souls; but under the paralyzing rule of the Turk the population has dwindled to less than 300,000. Only 50,000 of them are Mohammedans, and even these are generally of Greek descent and speak the Greek language. In 1866 the island revolted, and although there was much sympathy for the patriots, they were subdued in 1869. In 1891 there was another revolt. The wretched government of the Turk has become more wretched than ever, as the Sultan's power has crumbled. This rebellion seems more likely to succeed. Turkey is so impotent that the great powers of Europe will probably be able to effect an arrangement whereby Crete may have practical home rule, upon the payment of a nominal tribute to the Porte.

An Illustration For Farmers.
On a recent visit to Paris to breathe again the invigorating air of my native hill, it was as pleasing to observe that the apple orchards were so loaded with fruit that the limbs of the trees had to be propped up to prevent breaking. What is to become of this fruit? A large portion of it, as usual, will be exported to England, and will be paid for in gold or its equivalent. The exportation will not be made by the farmers in person, but round agents or middle-men will canvass Oxford county and make contracts for the fruit, to be paid for after returns are received of sales at the stipulated price agreed upon between the agents and the producer.

Now suppose gold, being the standard in England, and silver to be the standard in this country, which is bound to come if the Populists and new fangled Democrats are to have their way, what would be likely to happen? The agent will get this money in gold. But availing himself of his right by law to pay the farmer in silver, whose purchase power will be far less than that of gold, tenders the depreciated currency in payment, and the farmer must take that or nothing. The result to the agent will be, that he will realize not only the profits on his venture abroad, but an additional profit equal to the difference between gold and silver invested in it.

The farmer will, of course, lose the difference between these values. Now if, as is said to be probable, the gold dollar will buy forty seven cents more of groceries or other merchandise, which the farmer must buy, than the silver dollar, and the agreed price per barrel for his apples is one dollar, he will receive in fact but fifty-three cents besides being also obliged to pay an enhanced price for his groceries. This is the enticement to which the silverites are now inviting us, and their blatant orators are every where proclaiming it is of no consequence to us whether the standard is in England, and that it is high time for this country to declare itself independent of England and the British gold.

But suppose the farmer to be thus taken in by this year's operations, and that next year he seeks to protect himself by making his contract with the agent payable in gold, or in a currency of like value as England's, what then, under the Chicago platform, might and would be likely to happen? That platform, as reported by the Boston Herald, provides in substance that no contract payable in gold shall be enforced, or to quote its precise language "we favor such legislation as will prevent for the future the demonization of any kind of legal tender money by private contract." And this under a constitution which expressly forbids the impairment of contracts! Now what has been said of apples, applies to every other kind of surplus products for exportation. "Hard times these," it is said. But as yet the people and the exporting farmers and other producers, have not begun to feel the pinch as they surely will, should the Populists and silver Democrats succeed in electing Bryan and Sewall.

Special Effort for Quick Relief.

To the Editor of the Press:
A few Sundays ago the superintendent of a Sabbath school in this city, in speaking to the pupils of the great need of a relief fund by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, for the support of the native teachers in foreign lands in order that they may be retained in the field and carry on the good work, told how Rev. F. H. Hitecock of Chicago, district secretary of the states for the interior, had asked each Sabbath school and Christian Endeavor Society in his district to raise and send to him $500 right off, instead of waiting until the first of the year, thereby losing a good deal of valuable time. The superintendent asked the pupils if they thought they could raise a few pennies during the week and help make up the $500 so as he could send it to the American Board to show that the State of Maine is not far behind the other states in cases of emergency in mission work.

The following Sunday he recalled the matter and asked if they were prepared. Four small girls had earned $1.75 by selling lemonade at .03 per glass for two afternoon; another, whose father deals in butter and eggs, had the proceeds of what she would sell that week, and this was quite a little sum. There were different ways of earning the pennies that were brought for this contribution, and when it was taken up and counted there was an amount that surprised everybody—$20.42. He spoke very feelingly to the school and thanked them for showing that they were interested in this great work.

This Sabbath school is only a small one in this city, but it is very much interested in the work of missions in all its branches. If this plan could be carried out in all the Sabbath schools in the city and country (and some of them are better able to do it than the one spoken of, what a great amount of good would be done toward the Christianization of the darkened parts and the advancement of God's kingdom here in our own midst. Better try it and see what "special effort" can do. Twenty dollars will support a native teacher for one whole year.

SUBSCRIBER.

A queen is only a woman after all, and every woman is a queen if she be a perfect woman. The crown of womanhood is motherhood. There is no higher thing than this. There is no better thing than this. There is no woman can do than to be a mother of bright and happy children. That is the best and highest thing that anybody can do in this world. It cannot be achieved by a woman who isn't healthy, who suffers from any of the weaknesses or disorders peculiar to her sex. A false idea of modesty which prevents the acquisition of knowledge, and the careless which prevents an application of knowledge are the most prolific causes of this kind of sickness. Thirty years ago, knowledge of the prevalence of such disorders induced Dr. R. V. Pierce, than as now, chief consulting physician of the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., to devote a great amount of time and study to the preparation of a remedy that would invigorate and strengthen the womanly organism—that would cure perfectly and positively all forms of female weakness—that would take the danger away from childbirth, and greatly lessen the pains of labor. This remedy is called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That it accomplished the object for which it was intended is proven by its remarkable and continued success for 30 years. Women will gain much knowledge by reading Dr. Pierce's great treatise page "Common Sense Medical Adviser." A free copy will be sent on receipt of 21 cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only. PITTSBON.

Pittsbon, August 24.—Alden Knight, wife and little boy, also a lady friend and a young man, went from East Pittsbon over to Dyer's pond for a "little outing and a sail on the pond. They had just embarked and were fortunately, only a few minutes from the shore, when a blow of wind struck the sail and over it went. All were saved, but it was a narrow escape. The little boy went to the bottom, but was caught by the father, and the boat had only obtained a little headway before it capsized, some of the party would most likely have been drowned.

IT ALMOST WORKED.

This Bicycle Girl Had a Scheme, but the Other One Spoiled It.

She was young and fair, and that was evidently the reason why he brought out her bicycle with such promptness. She was wearing a suit of such perfection that it marked her as an amateur, and the druggist at the corner, glancing out the window, asked his clerk an apparently irrelevant question concerning the supply of pills in stock.

"Oh, I—I'm so frightened, Mr. Goldie," she quivered. "Do you really think I can learn?"

"Of course you can, Miss Daisy. Just feel perfect confidence in me, and"—

"Oh, but I always do that, Mr. Goldie. Oh, had I better try it today?"

"Well—er—just as you think." He glanced at the thermometer. "If you think it too warm today, Miss Annie said."

"Oh, not a bit, I—I like warm weather. By the way, don't you think dear Annie is a very graceful sort of girl?"

"Most girls are grasping when they are learning to ride, Miss Daisy."

He led the wheel into the street and carefully assisted her to mount, upon which several window blinds in nearby residences began to move as if suddenly endowed with life.

"Now, all you have to do is to keep your feet on the pedals, and don't hesitate to lean on me, Miss Daisy. Why, bravo!" as the wheel moved evenly down the street.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The Board Prefers the Carleton Lot for the New School House.

The regular monthly meeting of the school committee was held yesterday afternoon. In the absence of Mayor Baxter, Mr. Brownson officiated as chairman.

Miss Bedlow was granted a six months leave of absence, and Miss Mary B. Ballard was ordered as substitute in her place at the rate of $400 per year. Miss Bedlow is assistant teacher of drawing in the primary schools.

Mr. Hall said he considered the lot, for the new school house in Ward One, that was most desirable, was the Carleton lot, corner of Congress and Lafayette streets.

It is not taken the next most desirable is a lot on Emerson street. The Carleton lot requires the addition of another lot for a school yard. Mr. Hall said he should prefer the Carleton lot even without the extra lot.

Mr. Brownson contended that while there would be room in the rear of the school house for a yard if the Carleton was bought it would have to be reached through a narrow alley.

Mr. Talbot thought it didn't matter what the committee thought, the committee on public buildings will buy just such lots as they please.

The impression prevailed that the school committee would prefer the Carleton lot as between that and the Emerson street lot.

The matter of transfer of children from one district to another was discussed, and it was said that sometimes that had to be done owing to the crowded condition of some of the houses.

All persons, however, who at any time wish children transferred, must bring the matter before the board, but they will not be transferred except where imperative reasons are given.

Bills amounting to $519.32 were ordered paid.

WHERE IS HE?

What Has Become of Young Robert Richardson?

THAT IS A MYSTERY WHICH IS UNSETTLED.

He Came to Portland in June and Suddenly Vanished—He Said He Was Going to Jump Overboard—Left His Clothing and a Board Bill With Mrs. Atwood of Franklin St.

Who was Robert E. Richardson or Robert E. Hutchinson, and what has become of him?

That is the question that Mrs. Atwood who keeps a boarding house on Franklin street, and many of her boarders would like to know. The young man in question, for he was a young man apparently about 19 years of age, was a resident of Portland for one brief week, and concerning his residence here and subsequent disappearance, there hangs a tale, and this is it.

On a Wednesday of the last week of June last, there appeared at Mrs. Atwood's house on Franklin street a good looking, well dressed young man, who said he wanted to engage board for three months. He said he had just come from Boston on the boat, was out of health and came to Portland hoping to regain his health and strength. He bore letters of recommendation from the Continental Clothing company of Boston, in whose employ he had been and as his appearance was prepossessing, he was taken to board by Mrs. Atwood.

On the day following his arrival a gentleman of forty called to see him and inquired for Robert E. Hutchinson. The young man had given Mrs. Atwood the name of Robert E. Richardson, so when opportunity presented itself Mrs. Atwood's sister asked him how it happened that the man inquired for Hutchinson.

The young man replied that his name was really Hutchinson, but that his mother had been married the second time to a man named Richardson, when he was a very little child and that he had always been called Richardson. This explanation seemed entirely satisfactory.

The man who called to see him told the lady that he had formed the young man's acquaintance on the boat and was attracted by him. Mrs. Atwood or her sister neither of them know this man's name.

Robert said that his parents lived on Appleton street in Boston, and that his father was employed by the Edison Electric company. He spoke highly of them.

He was a melancholy chap at times and was apparently out of health. He was very pale and appeared to have some trouble on his mind. He would frequently come in and throw himself down and declared he wished he was dead and thought he should commit suicide. The ladies of the house thought it mere idle talk.

While here he applied to J. F. Clark & Co., for a position, and showed his recommendation there, but he was not employed. He was however a member of the Y. M. C. A., and had his membership transferred to the Portland association. He was a fine penman, drew well and was something of a musician.

When he had been here just six days he came in one morning about 10.30 and complained a great deal and was very despondent. Suddenly he jumped up and said: "I'm going to jump off the wharf," and with that he went out of doors.

That was the last seen or heard of Mr. Robert Richardson-Hutchinson at the Atwood mansion.

The people in the house thought nothing of his threat when he went out, but when night came, and he did not return they began to be worried. He left some clothes, and his board bill behind him. As nothing was heard of him, Mrs. Atwood reported the matter at the police station, but has heard nothing to clear up the mystery. She is inclined to believe that he really carried out his threat, and made away with himself, and is very anxious for any information that will lead to clear the matter up. It would seem if the boy told the truth as to his antecedents, the mystery might be cleared up.

The body that some young boys are reported to have seen in the water off the Eastern Promenade may have something to do with the stranger disappeared of Robert Hutchinson.

Sudden Death of William Brant.

Mr. William Brant, the engineer of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception died very suddenly yesterday morning. Mr. Brant was a very rugged man and had always enjoyed excellent health. Yesterday morning his wife was awakened by his touching her and groaning as if in distress. As soon as she looked at him she was alarmed at his appearance, and called the rest of the family. They immediately summoned Dr. Conyell, but when he arrived Mr. Brant was dead. The cause of his death was undoubtedly due to heart disease. He was forty-seven years old and leaves a widow, son and daughter-in-law. He was a man of good character, faithful and had many friends.

Jurors Drawn.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen yesterday morning Charles McCarthy, Jr., Amory H. Rogers and Wm. N. Howe, were drawn as traverse jurors for the September term of the Superior court.

Among the guests at the Raymond Spring house is Mr. Carl A. Weber, son of the paying teller of the First National bank of Portland. W. C. Wier and others of Portland, will soon spend a few days at the Spring house.

There are many points of excellence about them. These points of excellence we can explain to you better in person than in an advertisement.

Come in and let us point out to you why ours are the best shirts. In addition to quality there's price to be considered. We buy in large quantities and buy low. We are satisfied with small profits so sell low.
